Reporting Possibilities Abound—Predefined and Custom

The module comes with sample reports you can use as a basis for new reports, or you can design reports from scratch. To create a report, a user simply defines columns, including:

- “Descriptive” for row titles
- “Account” and “Classification” to report numbers from the General Ledger
- “Calculated” for variances, totals, differences, and percentages

In the data columns, users can select types of data, such as actual, budget, and encumbrance, and apply account masks to restrict the data in a column to specific accounts. For example, you could restrict accounts to funds/departments or revenues/expenses.

Rows are defined to include specific account groups, title rows, subtotals and totals. Typically, rows limit the accounts to groups required in a balance sheet, including assets, liabilities, and net assets.
